(Their in a series) School board candidate Gene Roh sees binned as a "line worker" for teachers and students bi the Beskeley Unified School District.

The 32-year-old Alameda County probation officer believes the BUSD has "forgotten and frustrated" the former and inadequately prethe pared the latter.

He also believes that as an Oriental he can help bring the perspectives of the Asian community !!- to-bear on Berkeley school problems.

"My campaign developed out of the Asian community - over our concern that the educational system provide quality education for all, but the campaign is not specifically trying to do. 'an Asian, thing'," Roh said in an interview. "I CAN offer something no

Rah has underscored his' philosophy in the voter handbook statement that "Berkeley must previde options for all children so that creativity is not inhibited, cor basic skills diluted. I know that within the Asian community. the educational system has failed in spite of the stereotype of academic achievements by Asians.

"I SENSE the pulse of the black and Chicano communities and feel the urgency to commit myself to children learning. Therefore I dedicate myself to an educational system that enhances the dignity and respect of all.'

Quality education must be diversified and "not produce an intellectual elite," he added.

On the simmering issue of violence in the schools, the Oakland-born, University of California-educated candidate believes the administration and board "have abdicated their responsibility to provide an atmosphere and climate where students can feel posttively supported and safe.

"THERE IS a lack of trust between citizens and the board - people are tip-toeing around on every kind of behavior issue that comes up. We need teachers to become much more involved with Supervenion and control in the classroom must be maintained so that teachers and students can respect each other, Reb added.

The young candidate said be believes that the answer to serious behavior problems with students is not so much their suspension from school but their suspension from class so they can stay in school and work in programs and projects aimed at removing the causes of their behavior

ROH SAID he is in favor of "preventative" kinds of programs relying on community expertise to serve as a "buffer" between the school and society at large in dealing with problem students.

"I would have a probation officer close at hand - in a consultative, not an oppressive, setting - to handle these kinds of situations" before recourse to police, ju-venile authorities and the courts is attempted, he said. Roh said he favors "incentive salarie's'' so that "classroom teachers who are committed to teaching could remain in the classroom and not be penalized for turning down a promotion that could put them into the administration - hence there could be some parity between administrators and teachers."
